HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE DROWN

Twenty Towns Suffer Loss in Morava River Valley.

THOUSANDS ARE STILL MAROONED

Many Persons Facing Starvation and Exposure.

Floods Are Worst in History of the Country—King Peter Personally Conducts Relief Work, Which Is Progressing Very Slowly—Passion Play Theater Is Not Injured by Flood—Ammer River Falling.

Belgrade, June 16.—Repors received today from King Peter, who is personally conducting the relief work in the flooded Morava river valley, inddicate that between 400 and 500 persons have lost their lives, and that at least twenty towns have suffered heavy loss, besides incalculable damage in the rural districts.

Thousands of persons are still marooned by the flood, and unless the work of relief is greatly expedited hundreds of these will be either drowned or die from starvation and exposure.

Owing to the washing out of most of the roads in the flooded district, and the destruction of bridges, the relief work is progressing slowly. Several of the smaller towns have literally been washed away. Wreckage of every conceivable sort is being carried down by the Morava river. The situation is the worst in ten years.

Ammer River Falling.

Berlin, June 16.—The river, Ammer, is falling today and by tomorrow it is expected that the water-bound visitors at Oberammergau, including several hundred Americans, will be able to leave. The theater in which the "Passion Play" is presented was not injured by the flood and the production that was to have been given this week will probably be given next week.

Conditions in the valley of the river, Ahr, are greatly improved. It is not believed the deaths will reach over 150, though the property loss will be far heavier than at first thought.

Lowlands Submerged.

Berne, June 16.—All the lowlands of western Switzerland are now submerged. The towns of Altdorf, Zurich, Lucerne, Stanza and Aarau are partially under water and a number of buildings have collapsed. A factory at Altsdorf collapsed, killing eleven employes, mostly children. Landslides are reported in many places, though the extent of damage resulting form these has not been ascertained.

Eighty Are Drowned.

Budapest, June 16.—Eighty persons have been drowned in the overflowing of the Hungarian river, Nera, according to despatches received here today.

AGAIN PARTIALLY INCAPACITATED

The Kaiser Suffers from a Sore on His Right Leg.

Berlin, June 16.—The Kaiser is again partially invalided today as the result of a bad sore just beneath his right knee. The physicians say the sore is due to the rubbing of his riding boot, and that it has no connection with the abscess on his right hand that recently incapacitated him. The Kaiser's disability, however, indicates blood imparities, and the people are again apprehensive. The Kaiser intended to visit Hanover tomorrow, but was forced to cancel the engagement.

Only the most urgent audiences are being granted by the emperor, and during these he sits with his right leg resting on a support.

CREW SAVED FROM SINKING SCHOONER

The J. Dallas Marvel Is Sunk in the Chesapeake Bay.

Baltimore, Md., June 16.—The three-masted schooner, J. Dallas Marvel, Baltimore to Salisbury, was cut in two yesterday and sunk by the steamer, Everett, Boston to Baltimore, in Chesapeake bay during a dense fog.

When the crash came between the two vessels, the crew of the Marvel manned a lifeboat and pulled away from their sinking ship. They were later picked up by the Everett.

"BUSTED" SENIORS MISS DIPLOMAS

One-Third of Entire Class at Yale Law School Flunks.

New Haven, Conn., June 16.—There was wailing and gnashing of teeth among the members of the Yale law school graduating class today.

The cause was the posted announcement by the law school faculty that thirty-three seniors, one-third of the entire class, had flunked.

The seniors say that since Dean Rogers has come to Yale, the courses and examinations have uniformly become too difficult for all but the 'grinds."

The "busted" seniors can obtain their diplomas only by passing further examinations or taking the year's work over again.

WILD ANIMALS MAKE ESCAPE FROM CIRCUS

All but a Hyena and Jaguar Captured, Says Management.

Johnstown, Pa., June 16.—The countryside near Ebensburg, Cambria county, is keeping indoors today for fear of wild animals that escaped when a train hauling Frank A. Hobbins' circus was wrecked this morning. The management says all but a hyena and jaguar have been captured.

Several were slightly injured in the wreck.

MAN WITH GUN CALLS ON TAFT

Marylander Almost Passes the Office Guards.

HIS EXCITEMENT BETRAYS PURPOSE

Says the President Advertised for Him.

Man Gives His Name as James Stricklin, of Cumberland, Maryland—He Is Searched and Then Taken to the Police Station. Has $100 in Cash on Him—Has Been in Insane Asylum.

Washington, June 16—Armed with a thirty-eight caliber revolver, James Stricklin, a miner from Cumberland, Maryland, gained entrance to the executive offices at the White House today, and almost succeeded in passing the door-keeper who guards the president's office.

Stricklin is a man of prepossessing appearance and was well dressed. He walked briskly into the executive offices, announced that he had an appointment with the president, and by his manner succeeded in avoiding suspicion until he was at the threshold of the president's private office.

The doorkeeper noticed a slight expression of excitement in the man's eyes, and thought as he approached the door that he seemed to be under high tension. Just as he was about to turn the knob the doorkeeper changed his mind and called Detective Sergeant Dalrymple. Dalrymple questioned the man and soon decided that he was not in his right mind. He searched Stricklin and took the revolver and $100 in cash from him.

Stricklin was taken to the police station. He said he was forty-four years old and that President Taft had been advertising for him in West Virginia papers. He asserted that he went to the White House in answer to the advertisements.

Stricklin called at the White House last June and attempted to see the president, stating to the doorkeeper that he desired to have troops designated to protect him. At that time he was heavily armed.

He has been in an insane asylum for several months.

KERMIT ROOSEVELT TO BE BEST MAN

His Brother Theodore, Says It's Time He Learns How.

New York, June 16.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., has asked his brother, Kermit, by wireless, to serve as best man at the Roosevelt-Alexander wedding, Monday.

Evelyn Irving, who had been chosen, was forced to withdraw because of the death of his father.

Kermit has never acted at a wedding, but it's time he learned now, said Theodore, Jr., today. Kermit will rehearse for the party Sunday afternoon.

NAVIGATES AIR IN STIFF GALE

Brookins Electrifies Big Crowd at Indianapolis.

HIS ENGINE STOPS WHILE IN MID-AIR

Some Aviators Balk When the Clouds Appear.

Huge Machine Plunges Earthward and Spectators Hold Their Breath, but Plucky Aviator Demonstrates Complete Mastery of Mechanism, and Rights the Aerial Craft Just in Time.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 16.—Aviator Brookins at the Indianapolis motor speedway made a flight, 100 feet from the ground, in the face of a stiff breeze that deterred the other aerial navigators from braving the elements. Every movement of the machine sent a thrill through the 15,000 spectators, and there was a cry of horror at one time when for a moment the aviator appeared to have lost control of his machine in the heavy wind, but it was quickly righted and moved in the rapidly increasing gale with the ease of a bird.

Everyone seemed to know that the storm was coming, and the Wright brothers themselves seemed to question the expediency if not the safety of a flight in the face of the storm. They went out in the field, looked up at the sky, shook their heads and conferred quietly together, taking care that no one should hear what they had to say. They did reach a conclusion, but it was reached through the crowd, that they had concluded to leave it to their men whether or not the flight should be attempted.

Didn't Look at Sky.

Walter Brookins was the only one who did not look skyward with doubting eyes, and in a few moments he came to the monorail with his machine and it was seen that he was going to try the flight. The biplane shot up and across the course and then went squarely into the wind, which was blowing not less than 30 miles an hour. For a quarter of a mile the biplane appeared to be carried forward by the gale, and then the aviator circled southward, still moving at a terrific rate.

From a hard fight he changed to an easy wind-borne flight until he swung around for the south turn. Then the crowd got its first thrill of the day. Brookins' engine was heard to lose the shots of the exhaust, the big biplane tilted and plunged downward. Brookins welcomed the return report of his engine; the propellers whirred, he tilted his wings to catch the wind, and shot skyward again. The crowd in the stands shuddered, but the incident was so soon over that it felt its heart pulses change to thrills of admiration almost instantly. The navigator went bravely into the wind again and circled the big field several times, finally landing with all the ease that expert handling could accomplish.

DRAG LAKE COMO FOR MISSING MAN

Divers Begin Search for Body of Charlton.

Como, Italy, June 16.—Divers from the navy yards this morning began examining the bottom of Lake Como for the body of Porter Charlton or other evidence to show that he too was murdered at the time his wife was killed and her body, packed in a trunk, thrown into the lake. The police are convinced, however, that their work will be without result, but the prefect wished to satisfy the American consul, who does not believe that Charlton was murdered and who threatened to search the lake at his own expense if the government refused to do so. Nothing whatever has been adduced to fix guilt on Constantine Spolatoff, the Russian who was arrested a few days ago.

OPPOSES M'KINLEY IN FIRST CAMPAIGN

Dr. L. L. Lamborn, of Alliance, Dies After Lingering Illness.

Canton, O., June 15.—Dr. L. L. Lamborn, of Alliance, died yesterday afternoon after a lingering illness.

Dr. Lamborn opposed McKinley in his first campaign for congress, and was the man who suggested to McKinley that the carnation be made the national flower.

A son, Lora L. Lamborn, is manager of the Canton News and Times.

CONFERS DEGREE ON THE GOVERNOR

Stewart, of Pennsylvania, Becomes a Triple LL. D.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 16.—Governor Stuart became a triple LL.D., Wednesday, when the University of Pennsylvania conferred on the state executive a degree of doctor of laws, the third he has received. Governor Stuart was the principal speaker at the commencement exercises of the university. Before the exercises the governor and several other distinguished guests attended the dedication of a new building for a university school of mines, and laying of the cornerstone of a school of medicine and the breaking of ground for a new school of dentistry.

Governor Stuart, with Mayor Magee, of Pittsburg, was entertained at luncheon by the trustees of the university.

Order Work Stopped.

San Francisco, June 16.—The work on the arena in which the Jeffries-Johnson fight was to be held and which was being pushed with all possible haste, in order to complete before July 4, was ordered stopped today.

Cannon Can't Go.

Washington, June 16.—"Uncle Joe" Cannon will not go to New York to greet Colonel Roosevelt, Saturday. When asked today whether he wou'd attend the big reception, Cannon said: "I can't get away from here at this time."

MAY LAUNCH A NEW PARTY

Insurgent Sympathizers Will Start Something.

MAY BOOM PINCHOT FOR THE PRESIDENCY

White and Lindsay To Attend Insurgency Banquet.

William Allen White Discusses a New Theory of the Spiritual Growth of Theodore Roosevelt. Colorado and Other Mountain States May See a Third Political Movement.

Denver, June 16.—That William Allen White, Judge Ben B. Lindsay and other sympathizers with the insurgents will "start something" in a political way tonight is the belief on the arrival of White and Lindsay from Colorado Springs to attend an "insurgency banquet' this evening.

While a Roosevelt club may not actually be formed the concensus of opinion is that such a movement will be put under way and that it will mean in reality the establishment of a third party in Colorado and other mountain states.

Many believe the new movement will not be a "back from Elba" movement, but rather a "Pinchot 1912" movement, the idea being to support the former chief forester for the presidency.

William Allen White will deliver the principal address. On his arrival today he reiterated the principles laid down in his address to the graduates of Colorado college last night when he discussed "a new theory of the spiritual growth of Theodore Roosevelt."

"Perhaps Mr. Roosevelt is wrong in some of his tenets," White said, "but right or wrong, he has inspired more men to righteousness in public life than a millionaire could call forth with all the millions of Wall street. And all the king's horses and all the king's men can not put America back to the lower ideals of the last century. The gain is permanent."

FARMERS PRONE TO SUSPECT NEIGHBORS

Of Poisoning Stock, Says the State Veterinarian.

Columbus, June 16.—Whenever a farmer loses two or three cows or other animals from some cause of which he is in ignorance, he is prone to suspect that some neighbor with whom he may have had a difference, is poisoning his stock," said Dr. Paul Fischer, state veterinarian.

"The other day a farmer came into the office, carrying a valise in which he had a cow's stomach which he wanted examined. He said that he was sure the animal had been poisoned. Well, he was mistaken, just as others are when they think their stock dies from such a cause. Farmers do not get even with each other in that way.'

LETTER FROM THE COLONEL

Writes World's Missionary Meeting at Edinburgh.

UNITED CHRISTENDOM IS ROOSEVELT'S PLEA

The Delegates Cheer Reading of the Letter.

Believes It Possible for the Churches To Find a Way for Friendly Cooperation—Conference Adopts Resolution Thanking Roosevelt for His Inspiring Words—He Can Not Attend.

Edinburgh, June 16.—A letter from Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, in which he pleaded for a united christendom in the work of the world's evangelization, created intense enthusiasm today among the 4,000 delegates, representatives and visitors attending the world's missionary conference. The letter was read by Lord Balfour, president of the conference, and at its conclusion the delegates cheered for several minutes.

After expressing regret at his inability to be present as a delegate from the Dutch Reformed church, the ex-president said:

"Every man imbued with the teachings of christianity must rejoice in the effort to combine the strength of all churches for the christianizing of humanity. It is imperative to remember that a divided christendom only imperfectly witnesses the essential unity of christianity.

"I believe it is possible for churches, without compromising their beliefs or losing the good contained in their diversity of gifts and differences of administration, to find a way for friendly cooperation regarding the underlying essentials upon which all christian churches are built. If we make up our minds to work together for the common good, we will find that doctrinal differences will not interfere with our work."

The conference adopted a resolution of thanks for Roosevelt's "inspiring words," a specially engrossed copy of which will be sent to him.

A FATHER-IN-LAW HUNTS SON-IN-LAW

Believes He May Find Him in Some Michigan Asylum.

Traverse City, Mich., June 16.—Searching for his son-in-law, Harry L. Brownell, who disappeared while on a hunting trip in the north woods last fall, J. Doty, of St. Charles, this state, is here to search the insane asylum for the young man whom he believes has been confined in some institution under an assumed name.

Doty states that Brownell and his wife were very happily married, and does not believe he starved to death in the woods as thought. No trace of him ever was found.

A month after his disappearance his wife gave birth to a child.

DENUNCIATION OF FORMER PRESIDENT

Dalziel Is Stopped by Speaker in the House of Commons.

London, June 16.—A scathing denunciation of former President Roosevelt, because of his Guild hall speech, was stopped in the house of commons yesterday by Speaker Lowther. Sir Henry Dalziel, in debating the appropriation for the foreign office, condemned Earl Grey's approval of the Roosevelt utterance, and was denouncing Roosevelt personally when the speaker interfered.

"Mr. Roosevelt's salary is not paid by the foreign office and his statements have no part in this debate," ruled the presiding officer and Dalziel quit.

JUDGE STOPS A MURDER TRIAL

He Orders Jury To Return a Verdict of Not Guilty.

Easton, Pa., June 16.—The prosecution of John T. Mongan, a member of the state constabulary on trial for the murder of Joseph Szambo during the recent strike at the Bethlehem Steel company's plant, collapsed yesterday. After half a dozen of the main witnesses for the prosecution had testified to the shooting, but admitted they could not identify Morgan as the officer who fired the shot that killed Szambo, Judge Scott stopped the case and ordered the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

SERIOUS EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS RECORDED

Estimated That the Quake Is Four Thousand Miles Away.

Washington, June 16.—Earthquake shocks continuing more than two hours were recorded early today at the Georgetown university. Father Francis Toldorf, in charge of the seismograph, estimated that the quake was about four thousand miles from this city.

The preliminary tremor was recorded at 1:48 a. m. This was followed by several shocks lasting until 2:05. There were almost continuous vibrations until 2:51, when another severe shock was registered.

The tremors continued until 4:11 a. m., the direction being east and west. Father Torndoff believes that the quake must have done great damage if it centered in a civilized part of the world.

Cleveland Reports.

Cleveland, O., June 16.—A serious earthquake about 3,000 miles distant is reported by Father Odenbach of St. Ignatius college this morning. Father Odenbach says the record shows many peculiar characteristics and he calculates that the shocks may have affected Iceland or that region. The first preliminary occurred at 2:49:10 this morning. The second at 2:56 and the main disturbance at 3 o'clock. The maximum, registered at 3:01:25 and the end at 4:16:15.

FRIENDSHIP OF ALDRICH

General Edwards Declares It Helps Taft.

KEEN SIGHTED AND LEVEL HEADED MAN

Claims the Senator Is Much Misunderstood.

Edwards Says Senate Can Not Help but Admire Aldrich for His Clear Headedness, and for That Reason It Does His Bidding—General Pays High Tribute to President Taft and Policies.

Cleveland, O. June 16.—General Clarence R. Edwards, insular bureau chief and close personal friends of President Taft, in an interview here today declared much of the president's influence in forcing legislation through the senate is due to the work of Senator Aldrich.

"It was through Aldrich's friendship for Taft that he put through congress bills that the president wanted to pass," Colonel Edwards said. "There were many of these bills whose wisdom Aldrich doubted, but for the sake of Taft he saw them through. Aldrich is a much misunderstood man, and it is to his credit that he has played fair with Taft."

Colonel Edwards attributed Senator Aldrich's success with legislation to the fact that he is a "keen sighted and level-headed man."

"The senate couldn't help but admire Aldrich for his clear headedness, and for that reason, if for none other, they have done his bidding," Edwards said.

Praises Taft.

"I don't care to use any names of senators," General Edwards continued, "but there are men in that body, opposed to Taft and Aldrich, who have had to hold their noses and gulp down the Taft program.

"I'll venture to say that before Taft has reached the end of his four years that he will have succeeded in getting through every bit of legislation that he is interested in."

General Edwards prides himself on his close intimacy with Taft.

"If Taft was known by everybody as I know him he would be beloved by every man in the country," he said.

General Edwards, soon to begin a tour of inspection in the Philippines, is visiting his mother, Mrs. William Edwards. With his wife and daughter, he will sail from San Francisco on the steamer, Siberia, June 28.

General Edwards says that since the tariff wall between the Philippines and the United States has been removed trade has increased two or three times over what it was seven or eight months ago. He predicts that before ten years have passed the Philippines in its exchange of commerce with this country will be using $100,000,000 annually of American goods.

Dixon made a descent for repairs and asked the boy to sit in the machine while doing the tinkering. A guy rope snapped and the lad was carried to a height of 3,000 feet and landed 12 miles west of here, escaping without a scratch. The last seen of the balloon it was sailing westward.

Wooster, O., June 16. — The trustees of Wooster university took the step that it is believed will result in the charter of the institution being changed so that money from the Carnegie foundation fund will be available to members of the faculty. and Republicans alike I am grateful that it comes from the Democratic party because I have been a Democrat all my life This is all I care to say by way of politics for I believe that there is not one of all the people before me who does not believe that the judiciary and politics should be kept apart

Mr Scofield then told how he had lived here all his life how he has grown up among the people of Marion county knowing all the old residents and many of the newcomers and how he had ever strived to earn and retain the honor and respect of all He pointed out that some of the people of the district were descendants of the Puritans one of the Cavaliers of Virginia that others came here from Penns here while the liberty loving Germans made up a considerable portion of the population All these people by in the district all are good people But that of them do not think alike and so in administering the office of common pleas judge it must be done not to the destruction of the one or that but to conform to the law and the rights of the people under the law

In conclusion Judge Scofield proclaimed that he did not believe that it was the duty of a court to listen to popular clamor to keep an ear to the ground to catch the trend of the moment and promised that if such were the requirement the wrong man had been nominated

If elected I shall interpret the law as I believe to be right and the people must be content But I promise them if elected to deliver back at the end of my term the judicial gamma spotless as when I received it

Glowing tribute was paid by Judge Scofield in the course of remarks to the judges under whom he had practiced Judge Frank Beist Judge C H Neer and the late Judge R G Young and high honor was also done by him to the late Judge O Bowen

In answer to a call Judge Pool of Crawford and P W Pool of Crawford made short talks and Colonel James E Close moved a vote of thanks to the Judge for the magnificent spread It is needless to say that the motion carried

A motion to adjourn carried and the delegates and others assembled went to the Marion Interurban ball game as the guest of the nominee

Excellent music was furnished for the convention by Dowd's orchestra

ABERNATHY LADS BEING LIONIZED BY NEW YORK

New York, June 11 Louis and Temple Abernathy will be two of the most prominent figures in the Roosevelt reception committee. The boys, six and nine years of age, who rode horseback from Oklahoma, are being lionized by New Yorkers. Their father United States Marshal Jack Abernathy, is about the proudest father in the country. After he met his two sons in Trenton New Jersey, he took them to a New York hotel, and now they are busy sightseeing. The most remarkable thing about the two boys is that they have not been "spoiled" by their long ride and publicity. They are two healthy American lads, who think they have the finest father in the world Nor do they use the slang credited to them by many reporters. The youngest boy still has a baby lisp and is happiest when he is on his father's knee, but he can ride a horse There is no dispute over that.

MAYOR J. G. SEITER HAS LITTLE SCHEME

For Raising Money for Expenses of the City.

PLANS TO PUT ON MORE POLICEMEN

More Policemen Means More Drunks Captured, and More Drunks Means More Money in the Way of Fines. Burglars Are Once More Active in the City.

So intent is Mayor Seiter in breaking up the practice of getting drunk or being drunk in Marion that he has declared that he would put on extra police and see that every person under the influence of liquor is arrested. When asked if the right to put on extra men was not up to the city council, the mayor replied that he would make a request to the council for extra men as they could well afford to put on a couple more officers as shown by the receipts from drunks, and that with more men there would be more arrests, and the city's income would be still larger.

About 1.30 Wednesday morning a call was telephoned to police headquarters saying that burglars were in the home of E. G. Allen, on east Center street. The telephone operator was unable to get the department for some time as a result of the power being off. Officers Cusick and Hostetter responded to the call as soon as it was received by them, but if there had been any person in the house, they had made their escape. Mrs. Allen stated Wednesday that nothing was disturbed, and that there was no indications that burglars had been in the house.

Albert Jones, who was fined $25 by the mayor for threatening to assault Jesse A Shackelford, paid part of the fine, Tuesday afternoon, and, arranging to pay the balance, was released from the prison.

The mayor still has complaints regarding automobile drivers running their machines beyond the speed limit in the city. Tuesday evening two girls in a phaeton had a narrow escape from being struck by a large auto, and reported the matter to the mayor. The mayor believes he has given sufficient warning, and has instructed the officers to see that the violators of the speed law are hauled before him.

John Seitz was arrested at his home on north Prospect street, about 10 o'clock Wednesday night, and is being held at the prison to answer to a charge of selling intoxicating liquors in violation of the Rose law. The police have had several tips during the past two weeks that Seitz had a stock of beer and whisky at his residence and was selling the same. As the result a trip was made to his house about a week ago, but nothing to indicate that he was violating the law was found by the visiting officers.

Tuesday night the police watched his house and saw several persons enter and come out. This caused them to believe that Seitz was doing business and they decided to watch again Wednesday night. Chief Klinefelter, Captain Bond and Officer Hostetter hid themselves near the house and watched for about two hours. They saw a man enter the house and the officers then went to the windows looking into the room where Seitz and his visitor were.

Each officer had a window to look through and a good view of the interior was had. Just after the alleged sale of a bottle of beer had been made by Seitz to his caller, the officers walked into the room and placed Seitz under arrest. Fifty-nine pint bottles of beer were found in the house and these were taken to police headquarters by the officers. A quantity of whisky was also at the residence, but this was not molested Wednesday night.

BIG BALLOON PLAYS PRANKS

Flashes Around Flagstaffs in New York City.

AERONAUT HAS A THRILLING TIME

Finally Floats Off Across the East River.

Frank Owens, the Aeronaut, Makes Beautiful Flight from Belleville to Passaic, and Then Finds Himself Sailing Over New York's Skyscrapers — Lookers-On Grasp Rudder Rope.

New York, June 14.—A runaway dirigible balloon today flashed around the flagstalls on the city hall, crashed against a massive chimney on the city court building, played tag with skyscrapers in the downtown districts and finally floated off across the East river into Brooklyn.

The balloon was navigated by Frank Owens, an aeronaut who left Hillside park, Belleville, a suburb of Newark, visited Passaic, and then passed over Jersey city on his way to New York.

The first part of the flight was beautifully executed. Owens sailed from Belleville to Passaic, passed eastward over the Hackensack meadows and Jersey City, crossed the Hudson river and found himself sailing over the skyscrapers of New York's downtown district. As he neared the city hall, he came lower and as he reached the city hall park he was barely grazing the roofs of the neighboring buildings He circled the flagstaff on the city hall tower three times, coming lower each time. On the third trip he endeavored to land in the park on the west side of the city hall. To do so he stopped his engine and the move nearly proved fatal.

As soon as his propeller ceased to give momentum to his dirigible, it became a plaything of the winds, which nearly dashed it against the city hall. Owens hastily threw out several bags of ballast and his dirigible, ascended, floating a little to the north and passing just a few inches over the roof of the city court building.

Makes Flying Leap.

A hundred thousand persons gathered in the streets to watch the aviator extricate himself from what seemed a fatal predicament.

Over the city court building, Owens threw out a stay rope, which was seized by willing hands and the monster dirigible hauled down. Just as Owens seemed to be nearing safety, the rope parted and the long triangular frame in which rested the aviator and his machinery was dashed against a chimney. The frame work bent in the middle from the blow, and Owens was seen to make a flying leap into the netting which held the frame to the silk gas bag. He seized the rip cord, as though to let the gas out of the bag, but seemed to realize that such a move would crash him against the building. Instead, he tied the rip cord firmly, so that it could not allow the gas to escape. The wind, catching the gas bag threw it higher into the air and the helpless aviator was carried across Park Row, narrowly missing the World building and the tower of the Brooklyn bridge.

As he passed the World building, Owens released several more bags of sand and his balloon shot 1,000 feet into the air, at which height it soared over the East river. The river steamers, thinking it part of a preconcerted plan, tooted vigorously.

The balloon sped over Brooklyn N Nostrand and Gates avenues, Owens cut his rudder rope which was grasped by willing hands and the balloon was pulled down into a tree, narrowly missing the trolley wires. A fire engine soon arrived and the firemen hoisted a ladder, taking Owens out

The balloon was dragged to a neighboring field and the gas released.

Hummel left Paris a few months ago and went to the Orient He had announced that he would never return to the United States, but it is now discovered that he had hoped to make his way back to this country for a brief stay.

A CLAIM AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT

For $1,500,000 Damages Involved in Bill Introduced Today.

Washington, June 14.—A claim against the government for $1,500,000 damages is involved in a bill introduced by Bartholdt, Republican, of Missouri, in the house, yesterday. It proposes that congress send to the court of claims the case of the Lewis Publishing company of University City, Missouri, which asserts that its business suffered greatly from attempted prosecution on false charges by the postoffice department and department of justice.

GIRLS DO NOT WANT CAREERS

They Want Homes and Children, Says Suffragette.

APPEALS TO WOMEN TO ABOLISH GRAFT

Men See the Issues and Women See Persons.

Miss Mary Stewart, of University of Montana, Declares We Are Dividing into Groups and Points to College Sorority as an Illustration of the Exclusive Classes. Civic Government Discussion.

Denver, Col June 14 —Despite the fact that political discussions are supposed to be barred by the "Congress of Mothers," in session here, the delegates today found food for discussion in an address delivered by Miss Gail Laughlin, a militant suffragette in which she scathingly denounced the corporations and in an appeal to women to abolish graft made by Miss Mary Stewart, of the University of Montana

"Men see issues, women see persons,' said Miss Stewart in part "We must get away from the habit of regarding only the things which touch our own lives and take a broader viewpoint. We are constantly dividing into such groups, and the college sorority is an illustration of the tendency to form exclusive classes

'But it rests upon the women to abolish graft and the sweat shops for children and bad civic government, for they can guide the ideals and mould the character of future citizens.

"Girls don't want careers They want homes and children I see this from wide observation It is there they can do the greatest service for the state."

ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS

Considerable Looking Backward by Statesmen.

INTEREST CENTERS ON TAFT PROGRAM

General Opinion That Congress Is Not Generous.

Congress Starts Big Wheels of the Legislative Machine in December with Apparent "Good Will Toward Men"—Many Bills Fail To Reach the Statute Books. Taft Wins Some Points.

Washington, June 14.—With final adjournment of congress near at hand, there is considerable looking backward today by the statesmen on Capitol hill, and much talk of deeds that have been done and the bills that have been done up.

Interest centers, of course in the Taft legislative program, and the general opinion is that congress has not been generous to the chief executive.

Congress started the big wheels of the legislative machine on December 6, with apparent good will toward all men, and more especially toward the president. Mr. Taft in messages and informally submitted recommendations for the passage of bills on eighteen subjects of legislation. Of the bills on these subjects introduces some have been much considered, some a little, and many have been buried in the archives of various committees None has yet reached the statute books.

Five numbers on the porgram, however, are certain to be carried out, and friends of the president say that their importance makes a good showing.

The railroad bill will be passed in a few days, minus several important features advocated by the president

The Statehood Bill.

A bill authorizing the president to withdraw public lands from entry has passed the house, and another bill on the same subject is near passage in the senate They will have to go through the hands of a conference committee.

The two branches of congress have passed postal savings bank bills that conflict in many particulars, but the difference will be settled without much trouble, probably by the acceptance of the house bill by the senate.

A measure providing that the government shall dispose separately of agricultural land underlain with coal will be ready for the president's signature in a few days.

A bill for the admission of Arizona and New Mexico to statehood has passed the house, and another is pending in the senate, but whether further action will be taken is a question.

Ship subsidy stirred up a scandal in the house and is done for in this session

Victory for Taft.

The action of congress in appropriating $250,000 for a tariff board was a victory for the president. His request that liberal provisions be made for the investigation of conditions in this country and abroad bearing on the tariff was strongly resisted by some legislators. Taft was determined, however, and by insistent argument mustered a large majority in favor of the proposition.

Federal incorporation was proposed in a bill introduced in both branches of congress A bill to regulate the issuing of injunctions appeared in the house, but did not get serious consideration

Nine bills bearing on conservation were presented at the instance of the president, but seven of them were destined never to see the light: A bill to issue $30,000,000 worth of government securities to assist the reclamation projects passed the senate, but was sat upon in the house by Chairman Payne, of the ways and means committee. A bill for the improvement of the government in Alaska was introduced in both houses but not passed. In the senate the bill, when presented, became the center of a mob scene and was withdrawn.

DENY THE FORMING OF POLITICAL PARTY

Garfield and Pinchot Say They Represent Themselves.

Cleveland, O., June 14.—Gifford Pinchot and J. R. Garfield denied here any intention to suggest the formation of a new party or that Theodore Roosevelt should lead a new party in their speech before the Roosevelt club in St Paul, Saturday night. "I said nothing along these lines," said Mr. Pinchot. "My reference to parties was that it is better to be a good citizen then a good Democrat or good Republican, and the special interests are equally strong in both parties. I said the snake we must kill is the snake of alliance between business and politics. We believed it time to say what has been in the public's mind for some time, and we said it."

"Do you represent Roosevelt?" he was asked "We represent no one except ourselves," said both Pinchot and Garfield

"Nothing was said by either Mr Pinchot or myself about a new party," added Mr Garfield. Both are former Roosevelt officers.

INJUNCTION AGAINST UNION STOCK YARDS

District Attorney at Chicago Files a Petition Asking This.

Chicago, June 14.—United States District Attorney Sims yesterday filed in the United States circuit court a petition charging the Union Stock Yards & Transit company and allied corporations which failing to comply with the requirements of the interstate commerce act, and asking an injunction restraining the operations of the defendants until they comply with the federal laws.

PROMISED LAND DOWN IN DIXIE

Ramsdell Pays Glowing Tribute to South.

HEALTHFULNESS AND RESOURCES

Harmony of Caucasian and the Negro.

Declares the South Has Many Advantages Over Canada—He Invites Northern Farmers To Come South Where Superior Land Awaits Them—The Growing of Wheat, Corn and Rice.

Washington, June 14.—Dixie is the promised land, according to a glowing tribute to its soil, climate, healthfulness and resources, delivered by Representative Ramsdell, Democrat, of Louisiana, in the house today. He pictured northern farmers swarming over the Canadian border at the rate of sixty thousand a year, each carrying $1,000 of real money and invited them to turn back and go to the much superior land awaiting them in the South.

"We have many advantages over Canada," Ramsdell said, "where the winters are so long and severe as to make life very uncomfortable for man and beast, and to restrict agriculture to wheat and the hardest cereals and fruits In the South every variety of crop and every form of animal life thrives.

"Corn does well in every southern state. Perhaps the southern crop that, next to corn and wheat, would appeal most to the northern farmer, is rice, which is handled in many respects the same as wheat. Wheat can be grown on two-thirds of our farms."

As to the races Ramsdell said:

"I unhesitatingly say that the caucasian and the negro can live in the most perfect amity, each race pursuing its own methods and working out its own destiny in friendly cooperation and competition, but without social commingling. The negro question is settling itself. In many localities of the South there are few negroes, and prospective immigrants can regulate this question easily by settling in communities, a plan which has much to commend it."

Jealousy Causes Double Tragedy.

San Jose, Cal., June 14.- Harry Parks shot and instantly killed his sweetheart, Mercy Baker of Scranton, Pa., when he found her in the company of Louis Reposo. Before he could shoot Reposo the latter seized the revolver and shot Parks, who then cut his own throat with a razor, inflicting fatal injuries. Reposo is in jail.

POLICE SEEK CLEWS TO TRUNK MURDER

Milan, Italy, June 14.—Whether the police will ever find the person who murdered Mary Scott Castle Charlton and placed her body in a trunk at Lake Como is yet to be decided. The police have discovered a number of clews, but have made no public announcement of the new points. Mrs. Charlton was well known in San Francisco society circles at one time. She created a sensation by attempting to kill a New York lawyer by shooting him as he was in an elevator in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, New York City. A few months ago Mrs. Castle was married to Porter Charlton, of Baltimore.

Killed While Chasing Truant.

Lancaster, O., June 14.—In an attempt to capture a boy who escaped from the Boys Industrial school and to prevent his getting aboard a freight train, Byron Stump, night watchman at the institution, was killed by an excursion train on the Hocking Valley railroad between this city and Sugar Grove.

Negro Quickly Lynched.

Sledge, Miss., June 14.- Elmo Curl colored, accused of insulting a young woman stenographer at Mastdon, was taken in hand by a mob when an Arkansas Deputy Sheriff handed him over to local authorities. He was quickly strung up to a tree in Mastdon.

TWO KILLED IN SMALLPOX CAMP

Kentucky Gang Attacks Negro Quarantine Car.

CAMP ESTABLISHED FOR RAILROAD MEN

Moving Car from West Virginia Causes Trouble.

Negroes Who Are Sick in the Car, and Who Are Able To Get Out, Have Scattered and Refuse to Return to Quarantine — Deputies Make Several Arrests and Others Are Expected Today.

Wheeling, W Va, June 14 —Reports reached this city early Tuesday of an attack on a negro smallpox camp car on the Norfolk & Western on the Tug river near Crum, West Virginia, Monday, by a gang who crossed from the Kentucky side and fired several fusillades into the car, killing two negroes who were quarantined there, and scattering others who were also confined to the car under quarantine.

The smallpox camp had been established for section employes of the railroad about two weeks ago, and several men who had been exposed to the disease were confined to the car.

Early Monday word was passed around that the car was to be moved to the Kentucky side of the river, and it was to prevent this it is said, that the attack was made by the gang from the other state.

The entire gang made its escape after the two men had been killed and the car riddled by bullets, Monday night, a number were captured by deputies and other arrests are expected Tuesday.

The negroes who were confined to the car, and who were able to get out, have scattered and refuse to return to quarantine.

BROKEN MOTOR SPOILS FLIGHT

Hamilton, However, Fulfills His Contract.

MAKES THE EXPRESS TRAIN HUMP SOME

Makes Splendid Time on Return Trip.

Accrobat of the Air Sails from Quaker City Back to New York, but He Is Delayed for a Time, in Jersey Swamp—He Is Given a Rousing Reception on Waterfront as He Drops from the Clouds.

New York, June 14. — Charles K. Hamilton arose from Governors Island in an aeroplane and sped without a break 88 miles to Philadelphia, in a remarkable cross-country flight, under the auspices of the New Times and Philadelphia Public Ledger. He made the trip in 1 hour and 51 minutes.

He had flown approximately 70 miles of his return journey when a sluggish motor drove him to descend in a swamp near South Amboy, N. J. The propeller was broken there in landing, but after repairs had been made Hamilton resumed his flight and landed at Governors Island 20 minutes later. Thus the return trip was made in 1 hour and 36 minutes, at an estimated average speed of 54.96 miles an hour, which breaks the record made in the Curtiss flight from Albany to New York. As it was, his actual flying time for the 172 miles was 209 minutes, and he fulfilled to the letter his contract with the New York Times to make a round trip from New York to Philadelphia within 24 hours.

Glenn H. Curtiss, the first man in this country to make long distance calls in a flying machine, said he considered Hamilton's achievement the greatest in the history of aviation; unsurpassed, in that Hamilton struck out a course for himself, without land buoys to guide him, without a charted route to help him, and accomplished the feat with such accuracy that he kept to the second on the schedule he had laid out.

Reception Was Noisy.

Few men have received the kind of reception that Hamilton got when he dropped out of the clouds. Along the Battery, the water front of lower Brooklyn, the edge of Staten Island and the Jersey shore, the piers and sea walls were black with people. Thousands of them had waited for hours, swayed by rumors that came from the Amboy swamp. All weariness of the long wait, the impatience and the damp chill of the evening were forgotten when an officer with powerful field glasses suddenly threw up his hand and whooped like a Comanche. He was a gray and dignified officer, but he pirouetted like a soubrette. His yell was echoed over the wide expanse of sand that the government has built up at sea. There was scurrying toward the waterside. He came so fast that a few seconds after the officer had spotted the aeroplane it was discernible to the naked eye. You saw, painted against the gray mists of Staten Island, over the Kill Von Kull, a blur. It might have been the tiniest puff of smoke. Ten seconds more it was a wide, winged bird, a bird with its head tucked out of sight. On it came in a line a quarter of a mile south of the Statue of Liberty, 400 feet above the bay. In another flash of time you made out the clean lines of the planes and you could see Hamilton crouched on his steering wheel. It enhanced the grace of a flight. While still over the bay, but rapidly nearing the sea wall of Governors Island, Hamilton shut off power. The propeller ceased its faint droning, revolved slowly a few times, and the machine commenced to drop, slowly at first, then faster. Hamilton set the motor working just long enough to reverse the propeller and to make sure of an easy landing.

Hamilton was accompanied by a special train on the Pennsylvania railroad, which was compelled to travel at the rate of 75 miles an hour between Trenton and Monmouth Junction to keep the aviator in sight.

Hamilton needn't have hurried to have won the cash prize the New York Times offered for the round trip. The condition was that he fly to Philadelphia and back in 24 hours, making as many stops as he pleased. The prize was $10,000.

Truth the First Necessity.

No court of justice can be carried on if people will not tell the truth.

NEARLY $100,000 IN CASH PRIZES AWAIT THE FLYING MACHINE MEN

C. K. Hamilton, G. H. Curtis, Edwin Gould and Wilbur Wright.

New York, June 10.—The prize of $15,000 offered by Edwin Gould for the aviator who makes the longest flight in an air machine during the coming summer has started the air world going around in circles once more. Since the remarkable flight of Curtiss between Albany and New York prizes have been offered by various cities that now total nearly $100,000 in cash. This amount is to be increased, so it is said, until by fall men who fly for a living willhave nearly $150,000 in prizes to work for Hamilton is out to break records in his round trip between New York and Philadelphia next Saturday.

MANY LODGES HOLD MEMORIAL EXERCISES

Four Bodies of Odd Fellows at Calvary Church

ABLE SERMON BY REV MR WEATHERWAX

Knights and Ladies of Maccabees Assemble at the United Brethren Church—Both Local Lodges of the Knights of Pythias Hold Services at Canby Castle Hall

The annual memorial services of Wayside and Kosciusko Lodge I O O F and Wayside Rebekah and Sorrow Rebekah lodges were held at the Calvary Evangelical church Sunday morning and were very largely attended

Forming in order the members marched to the church and there occupied reserved section reserved for them

The program of the service was opened with the Choral Ode by the choir and the invocation by the pastor Rev I J Weatherwax After a hymn All Hail the Power of Jesus Name and the scripture lesson read from Samuel I 15 the opening ode was sung by the lodges

George Hagmann and W C Fuller read the long rosters of dead following which the male quartet of the church rendered a selection

Rev I J Weatherwax delivered the memorial sermon He declared that there is nothing in the world so valuable as love We may hope to gain wealth or fame and we may at times be prone to believe that these are all that are worth while in this life but there is nothing so good or so beautiful as pure and unselfish love

Rev Mr Weatherwax spoke at some length of Jonathan and of his remarkable love for David There are few examples of such great love in the world with the exception of that of Jesus Christ That feeling of friendship and good will toward others is to be sought The minister told of Turner the great English painter who while an exhibit was being held took down from the gallery one of his own magnificent pictures in order to replace it with that of an unknown artist whose picture was worthy but for which there was no place on the walls It is this kind of love that will be necessary in the world in order to solve the great social problems

In bringing his address to a close Rev Mr Weatherwax declared that while the orders have many good qualities they should not be used to divide the church for this institution should always be first The speaker stated that the lodge represented in the service should continue in that direction and love for each other which is so desirable in all cases

The service was closed by the singing of the doxology and the benediction by Rev Mr Weatherwax after which the members marched back to their hall and dispersed

Maccabee Memorial

The annual joint memorial exercises of Model Tent No 147 Knights of the Maccabees and Marion Hive No 2 Ladies of the Maccabees were held in the United Brethren church on South Prospect street Sunday morning The attendance was very large

Rev I W Mills the pastor delivered the memorial address He said in part

The ancient family known as the Maccabees commenced their work of patriotic and religious heroism during the persecution of Antiochus Epiphanes about the year 166 before Christ They were a bold courageous people who dared to resist the dreadful persecution that was inflicted upon them They were willing to suffer many privations that they might obtain liberty and religious thought and freedom guaranteed under the law and for these ever prevades as they were willing to suffer rather the hardships of war They had an indomitable purpose and were successful in procuring many rights for themselves and their posterity

Under Mattathias perhaps the most renowned was that of no small ability and a daring warrior who armed his soldiers with the sword and the purpose and the justness of their cause and he was successful in many battles with opposing forces It is by this patriotism in the defense of home and religious liberty that the Maccabees are known in the history of the world Let us be all more careful that we are conscientiously laboring under such principles that will enable us to say that we have fought a good fight and we have kept the faith and henceforth there is laid up for us a crown of righteousness which the Lord the righteous judge shall give to us at that day

Rev I W Mills the pastor delivered the memorial address He said in part

The ancient family known as the Maccabees commenced their work of patriotism and religious heroism during the persecution of Antiochus Epiphanes about the year 166 before Christ They were a bold courageous people who dared to resist the dreadful persecution that was inflicted upon them They were willing to suffer many privations that they might obtain liberty and religious thought and freedom guaranteed under the law and for these ever prevades as they were willing to suffer rather the hardships of war They had an indomitable purpose and were successful in procuring many rights for themselves and their posterity

Under Mattathias perhaps the most renowned was that of no small ability and a daring warrior who armed his soldiers with the sword and the purpose and the justness of their cause and he was successful in many battles with opposing forces It is by this patriotism in the defense of home and religious liberty that the Maccabees are known in the history of the world Let us be all more careful that we are conscientiously laboring under such principles that will enable us to say that we have fought a good fight and we have kept the faith and henceforth there is laid up for us a crown of righteousness which the Lord the righteous judge shall give to us at that day

Rev Mr Weatherwax spoke at some length of Jonathan and of his remarkable love for David There are few examples of such great love in the world with the exception of that of Jesus Christ That feeling of friendship and good will toward others is to be sought The minister told of Turner the great English painter who while an exhibit was being held took down from the gallery one of his own magnificent pictures in order to replace it with that of an unknown artist whose picture was worthy but for which there was no place on the walls It is this kind of love that will be necessary in the world in order to solve the great social problems

In bringing his address to a close Rev Mr Weatherwax declared that while the orders have many good qualities they should not be used to divide the church for this institution should always be first The speaker stated that the lodge represented in the service should continue in that direction and love for each other which is so desirable in all cases

The service was closed by the singing of the doxology and the benediction by Rev Mr Weatherwax after which the members marched back to their hall and dispersed

COMMENCEMENT AT GRAND OPERA-HOUSE

Marion High School Class of 1910 Is Graduated.

OPERA-HOUSE IS PACKED FOR EVENT

Largest Class in the History of the Schools Completes Its School Work To Take Up the Affairs of Everyday Life—Orations of High Merit.

It was a magnificent and truly representative audience that gathered at the Grand opera-house, Friday evening, to witness the formal graduation of the members of the class of 1910 of the Marion High school and to hear the orations of twelve young people, among whom were the honor pupils of the class.

The program Friday evening, was the usual exercises of the thirty-eighth annual commencement of the school, and despite the very inclement weather, the attendance was record-breaking.

Practically every available seat was taken early in the evening, and the splendid manner in which the school patrons generally turned out to the exercises was indicative of a growing interest in the annual commencement. The rain was a dire disappointment to the sweet girl graduate and gallant young man, but the manner in which so many braved the storm served to lessen the disappointment and added new zeal to the graduates.

The program rendered, in turn, was one of the best and most entertaining ingenuable and those who braved the storm were more than repaid.

Familiar Picture.

Shortly after 8 o'clock, the curtain arose, revealing that picture so often seen, but made up of new faces. The big class filled the seating capacity of the stage, and the members were so arranged as to present an interesting picture. The stage was simply decorated. To the rear was suspended the mammoth pennant of the class in green and white and at the front were palms and other greenery. The whole picture was beautiful and with the forest scene which was used, the class colors of green and white were distinctly brought out in exquisite harmony.

At the right of the stage in front of the graduates were seated H. Edward Hill, president of the board of education, and K. H. Marshall principal of the High school. To the left were Superintendent H. L. Frank and Dr. David H. Bixby, pastor of Epworth M. E. church.

When the curtain arose, Dr. D. H. Bailey stepped forward and offered the invocation, after which the orchestra rendered a selection and the series of orations was begun. The ten orations, given during the evening, were of a high character. It is a signal fact that the young people handled their themes in a manner showing a most careful training. The program, if it did not excel those of former years, was one fully up to the standard.

Mr. Hill Speaks.

Mr. Hill said in part:

"I assure you that nothing gives me more pleasure or greater satisfaction than to know that these honored graduates, after years of honest and persistent toil on their part, the sacrifice of time and money on the part of you parents and patrons, and the careful and patient training on the part of the teachers in our public schools, have at last reached the culminating point of their school endeavors.

"The desire of every student, when he enters college, public or private school should be first to educate himself, then graduate, for education lies at the foundation of every preparation for usefulness in this life. It lifts man from the depths of despair and degradation to the heights and beauties of glory and civilization. It began its career with the creation of the world, and continuously and persistently has it followed down the corridors of time until we today, as a nation, stand amid civilization's splendor.

"The United States stands above the surrounding world; she is the queen of nations, the greatest and grandest of all free and governmental institutions. She has achieved her greatness, her incomparable power as a nation by virtue of her educational institutions.

Upward and Onward.

"Ever since our Pilgrim fathers came to the rocky shores of New England, and builded there the crude and unsightly log church and schoolhouse, has far-famed Columbia moved upward and onward toward the field of national supremacy, whilst today nations that slumber in ignorance, that are wrecked on the billowy sea of barbarism, know not of the gems and virtues of good and wise statesmanship, they have gone down in the scale of civilization, due to the neglect of their education.

"Every individual living beneath the American flag can, if he will, today educate himself at the expense of this government. Here is where the rich and poor have one common basis. Where poor girls and poor boys have equal educational opportunities with the proudest and wealthiest of our land. At the very beginning of this American government we first dethroned tyranny and enthroned liberty. Education dispelled the doubts and superstition prevailing at the organization of our government, and made of men a confident, Christian and believing people. Education is the greatest safeguard to American homes, the greatest safeguard to American institutions, the greatest safeguard to American citizenship, and I beg of you, ladies and gentlemen, to maintain and protect this national system of education within those United States of America, wherein it affords equal opportunities to all men."

Turning to the graduates, Mr. Hill gave a short talk, after which he gave out the diplomas as the names were read by Superintendent Frank.

The class song was sung by the class and the benediction was pronounced by Dr. Bailey, after which the class yells were given and the thirty-eighth annual commencement of the school was over and the various members dispersed.

The following is a complete list of the graduates who were given diplomas, Friday evening, in the three courses:

TESTED AND PROVEN

There Is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Marion readers have seen the public expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy ever had such convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. B. Cusic, 785 Patterson street, Marion, Ohio, says: "I have known of the value of Doan's Kidney Pills for many years. I never used this remedy myself but other people in my house have taken it with gratifying results. A member of our family was an almost constant sufferer from kidney complaint and backache and hearing that Doan's Kidney Pills were very effective in bringing relief from this trouble, a supply was procured from Schmidt & Co.'s Drug Store. No remedy could have given greater satisfaction. Short use of Doan's Kidney Pills removed the trouble and the cure has been permanent. I publicly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills in July, 1904, and at this time, I am still a strong advocate for them."

1816 CALLED THE YEAR WITHOUT A SUMMER

Farmers Obliged To Pay Five Dollars for Seed Corn.

The year 1816 has been called the year without a summer, for there were sharp frosts in every month. January was mild, so was February, with the exception of a few days. The greater part of March was cold and boisterous. April opened mild but grew colder as it advanced, ending with snow, ice and winter cold. In May ice formed one-half inch thick, buds and flowers were frozen and corn killed.

Frost, ice and snow were common in June; amost every green thing was killed and the fruit was nearly all destroyed. Snow fell to the depth of three inches in New York and Massachusetts, and ten inches in Maine. July was accompanied with frost and ice. On the 5th ice as thick as window glass was formed in New York, New England and Pennsylvania, and corn was nearly all killed in certain sections. In August ice formed one-half inch thick.

A cold northwest wind prevailed nearly all summer. Corn was so frozen that much was cut and dried for fodder. Very little ripened in New England, even in Connecticut, and scarcely any even in the Middle States. Farmers were obliged to pay four dollars or five dollars a bushel for corn of 1816 for the next spring's planting. The first two weeks of September were mild, the rest cold with frost and ice one-fourth inch thick. October was colder than usual with frosts and ice; November cold and blustering with snow enough for good sleighing; December quite mild and comfortable.—The Journal and Messenger.

EQUALIZATION BOARD CAN'T REDUCE TOTAL

But May Juggle Values of Separate Tracts of Realty.

In letters sent out by State Auditor Fullington to all taxing officials of Ohio, he says that quadrennial boards of equalization and review, in increasing the returns, must consider each separate lot, tract or parcel of real estate and may order a blanket increase only after each separate lot or tract has been considered. The boards may not reduce the aggregate value of real property but may bring about an equalization by shifting the values from one tract to another.

THE COUNTY LEVY IS REDUCED FRIDAY

Commissioners Cut It Down Two-Tenths of a Mill.

ABOUT EVERYTHING BUT PIKES CLIPPED

With the Pikes, the Commissioners Are Unusually Liberal—The Pike Levy Is Increased One and Nine-Tenths Mills—The New Pike Levy Will Net About $53,000.

A county levy of 8-555 mills, a reduction of two-tenths of a mill, was fixed by county Commissioners Henry Seiter, A. H. Trout and W. H. Holverstott at a meeting held in the commissioners' office, Friday afternoon. The levy follows:

County fund, two mills and eight-tenths of a mill; children's home, 435-1000 of a mill; election, two-tenths of a mill; judicial, three-tenths of a mill; county debt, 37-100 of a mill; soldiers' relief, 15-100 of a mill; indigent blind, two-tenths of a mill; bridges, seven-tenths of a mill; pikes, two and five-tenths of a mill; infirmary, nine-tenths of a mill.

The state levy is one and 347-1000 mils, making the total levy nine and nine-tenths mills. The reductions and increases made by the commissioners were:

County fund, reduced six-tenths of a mill, children's home, reduced 120-1000 mills; infirmary, reduced one-tenth of a mill; pikes, increased one and one-tenth mills; election, increased 6-100 of a mill; soldiers' relief, decreased one-twentieth of a mill.

The new pike levy, with the state aid, will net about $53,000 for the pike fund next year. On a duplicate of $19,151,940, the total income will be $163,870.51.

Providing the city of Marion makes no change in its present levy of fourteen and five-tenths mills and the township, school and ditch tax remain the same, the total levy for all purposes will be thirty-nine and 300-1000 mills on real estate and thirty-six and nine-tenths mills on personal property.

The present township levy is one mill and the school levy, eleven and five-tenths mills, while for ditches the levy is two and four-tenths mills.

Figuring on the above basis there will be an actual reduction of the levy of only five-tenths of a mill for all purposes.

EPWORTH LEAGUE OF GERMAN M. E. CHURCH

Installs Officers To Serve for the Ensuing Year.

The officers of the Epworth league were installed at the services at the German M. E. church, Sunday evening, the services being largely attended. The installation address was made by the pastor, Rev. C. E. Buerkle, who spoke relative to the importance of each office and the duties which fell upon the officers. The church was beautifully decorated with cut flowers, which filled the edifice with fragrance.

During the evening, Miss Margaret Hecker read a very interesting paper on "Personal Responsibility." Miss Stella Dietsch read a paper telling of the importance of the literary and social departments of the league. The program was added to in an entertaining manner by selections by the choir and orchestra and a flute solo by L. B. McNeal, the piano accompaniment being played by E. C. Carl. Arthur Strawser, the retiring president of the league, introduced the new president, and outlined the work for the year.

The officers installed were as follows:

GETTING away from the tyranny of clothes is supposed to be one of the things that make summer delightful for all the big resorts—at Bar Harbor Newport Saratoga Springs Atlantic City and the like where raiment is the paramount interest of women folk—that rate toilettes are the rule from breakfast hour till midnight. Paris and the Riviera are closely imitated and as much money is represented in costumes as any winter gathering ever shows.

In fact the dress of the women at Palm Beach in February is much simpler in type than the raiment affected at Newport in August. The midsummer month brings the Newport season to its height of gaiety. All the magnificent private villas—or cottages as the smart set terms its seaside palaces are open occupied either by the owners or rented furnished for the season. Dowagers are introduced with the same formality that prevails in the winter season. Function notices are readily entered. All important affairs are given great importance and matches are made and there is withal a certain chill of society and a delightful scarcity of brilliant costumes.

After all it is much the same at Palm Beach Atlantic City and Saratoga as at Newport. Costumes differ a little in festivities but as representative of fashions costumes are quite the same and the women perhaps a trifle unfa

Where Fine Feathers Make Fine Birds

One of this month's magazines has a story about an ambitious little up the state woman who determining to cut a figure at a great summer resort hereby presents all of a room and blossoms forth hopefully at each meal in stunning costumes deemed lavishly adequate for her home reckoning. But pitifully inadequate as she speedily discovers when measured by the stupendous sartorial efforts about her. So after going the round of her wardrobe and exploiting in turn her black satin dinner gown her white lingerie dress and hat her blue satin Empire and other delectable costumes this sadly modified small town bud poodle represents her travails and trepidations at last to the pink of chic with her smart waistcoat she is invited to dine! No moral points the tale but the world is obvious that attempt to cut a figure at a big summer resort on anything but a Paris wardrobe and purse fit

Changeable Chiffons Are the Newest Wrap Fabric

Transparent effects always the most expensive for time in the world choose this summer. In Paris these full wraps are called race coats and they are worn at the races at Longchamps and Auteuil on racing afternoons. There is a continual procession of smart motor cars on the avenues leading to these places on Sundays afternoons and the frocks hats parasols and chiffon wraps displayed are a study in themselves.

When the layers of chiffon are combined with chantilly and other laces and the whole transparent fabric laid over a gown of shimmering satin—well the sum total of effects is an impressive figure even as measured by the estimate of a French couturier. Pictures of the transparent frocks with transparent coats over them we so lovely that we have read one feels sure would ever be unmoving enough to fall at the beck.

The gamut of color effects to be produced by different very chiffon having been exhausted modistes are now fabricating out new hues in wonderful changeable fringes and these new fabrics are made beautiful. Greens of autumn with soft hints in the way of yellow that blend with lilac with pink and red until it seems that some of the color effects were their edible would really melt in ones mouth. In fact as the chiffons of tinted scraps the new colors look so delicious they OUGHT to be good to eat.

One of the transparent wraps illustrated is built of this bangorbla chiffon in a blending of the pale yellow of an elm tree in autumn with the warm rich flame color of the maple. Here and there lights the golden tone is strongest in others the flame color prevails. The wrap is toned down with touches of dull satin and the hat of black straw with pale yellow plumes carries out the color scheme.

The Chiffon Wrap Must Blend With the Frock.

The elegance of the wrap is entirely in the garment itself. The fact that the chiffon is beautiful for after all the accessories of dress must blend into a harmonious vanishable chiffon material the lines must austerely be done in order that the gown with the chiffon wrap really fit. Perfection cannot blend or the effect is completely spoiled. In this instance the gown is made of cream chiffon over a satin foundation in pale salmon pink the blend chantilly motifs being appliqued on the chiffon in very delicate effect. The faint yellowish pink of the gown forms a most beautiful background for the warm autumn leaf tones of the chiffon wrap and this also is one of the carefully studied harmonies of the transparent costume as evolved by the French artiste.

Sometimes the dark chiffon wrap is worn over a lingerie frock of lace and mull but this effect lacks in distinction unless the frock is dull rather open up in the lace trimming and is moreover long about the feet something that few lingerie frocks are this season. It should be borne in mind that the chiffon wrap is a dignified garment. Its distinction lies in rich material long lines and a certain elegance. It must be worn with an air and accompanied by most expensive accessories in the way of hat parasol and gloves.

The Parasol a Most Important Dress Feature

With the autumn leaf wrap described above is carried a parasol of salmon pink on which are appliqued in the same black chantilly the silk being cut away beneath the lace in transparent effect. These lace motifs are joined by festoons painted in water color in delicate tints directly upon the silk.

Hand painted sunshades are a fad just now and some of the effects are charming. Festoons and garlands on the effects of the designs and sometimes oval medallions are set at intervals the medallions containing exquisitely hand painted faces of court beauties one specialist being notable for the reproduction of the power of the grand in Paris these dainty paintings are done by artists in the Latin quarter who earn a living by this work and its by long odds finer paintings and in America the parasol are hand painted by fewer still artists.

There is an eccentric fancy for having the handle of the parasol at the wrong end that is the fancy for the ornament which is held by the hand is attached where the ferule is usually placed and the metal ferule goes on the long stick at the other end. Thus the parasol when held upside down not only advantage of this method is that the ends of the ribs do not catch in the gauzy laces and ribbons of the costume. One of the illustrations shows a parasol of this sort. This is a white silk parasol hand painted with yellow cowslips and daffodils and it is held with a wide accordion plaited pale yellow chiffon with applique full chantilly. The hat has a sweeping white plume feather and even the glasses have of creamy silk with tiny knots of embroidered flowers in yellow. These embroidered gloves are much worn this fall sort and some of the patterns are very distinct the small flowers being worked in the tips of the hands as well as on the wrist. The real dainty Suzanne Mill in fine cool dressy silk gloves is also a feature of all the smart summer resorts this season.

Broad-brimmed Picture Hats Vie With Chic Small Shapes

With the coming of sunny summer days the big picture hats always come out in their new no matter who style it may be early spring. Some of the picture hats designed to accompany cream silk frocks are supremely beautiful in both grace and their richness of material. Costly plain satin laces and silk such as that used in millinery than the real scarf but all one of these picturesque results at a time. The notion is not to load it with trimming but to use the trimming that is used both is striking in itself. Some of the large picture hats the three-figure mark and some $50 hats which one would have seen dressed differently are now passed by ladies fully alive to the shopping fact that a piece of headgear which costs but is at first smart in summer need not be put away with the furs and woolens but may be brought out next season with a touch of this and that to make it look like a new hat.

Many of the large hats are covered with white lace and trimmed with white ostrich feathers. Two French hats of this sort are illustrated. One is a very attractive model which turns the brim from the face and is caught at the crown with a diamond buckle. The duffy mass of feather ends nestling at the back and tumbles over the wide brim. The other is a picture hat shape which is not exceedingly becoming. The front brim dips down over the eyes but at the back the brim is lifted high showing the chiffon of cuffs and a rich white lining. On the right side is a cluster of ostrich tips and a bird.

Fashionables of course do not wear flowers at weeps and ridiculous hats. Their time is yet to come. But their shall while it is while pansies continue to be worn in the hair of the fair maiden with a mournful pensive effect of childishness and innocence enormously expensive because of the exquisite fine waterfalls and tuberoses. White lilies of all types with lesser lilies of both white and yellow flowers and the like are used in profusion. Orchids are supremely beautiful in such grace and their richness of coloring. Costly plain satin laces and silk such as that used in millinery than the real scarf but all one of these picturesque results at a time. The notion is not to load it with trimming but to use the trimming that is used both is striking in itself. CHANTECLER IS HANDKERCHIEFS

THE vogue for Rostand's cock of the walk has extended to handkerchiefs. Some very attractive ones are to be had for a few cents each. Each one is adorned with a figure of the cock faithfully reproduced by the new embroidered stitches. A white linen handkerchief with a tiny border in color and with the cock embroidered in shades of red and brown is red over points. Other handkerchiefs show bits of the cock and white feathers and flaming red combs and wattles.

What is What in SMART NECKWEAR

THIS year is when the wearing of the high collar is the order of the day. Fashion has set the seal of her approval upon the high collar and it is safe to say that this season will be the most successful one for the high collar that has ever been known. The designers of the fall and winter gowns have all their work cut out for them if they are to outdo the high collar in the matter of smartness.

As a matter of fact the high collar is as smart as ever. The woman who has fashioned for herself a high stock to wear with her tailored suit is fully up to the minute in the matter of dress. The high collar is as much in evidence as ever. The only difference is that the high collar of this season is much more elaborate than the high collar of last season. The high collar of this season is much more elaborate than the high collar of last season. The high collar of this season is much more elaborate than the high collar of last season.

MR. TAFT TALKS TO GRADUATES

President Warmly Greeted at Marietta

GOVERNOR HARMON IS HIGHLY HONORED

Diamond Jubilee of Marietta College

Harmon Is Given Degree as Doctor of Laws and in Return Sings Praises of the Small Institutions of Learning—Addresses 12 000 People in City Park and Omits all Political Subjects

Marietta O June 3 —Finding the ordinance of 1787, which gave a government to the Northwest territory as to the cause and effect of the adoption of the greatest instrument of fundamental law except the constitution of the United States President Taft this afternoon delivered the principal address at the celebration of the anniversary of the foundation of Marietta college in 17

The president crowded into a short five hours a host of activities Immediately on arriving he lunched with W W Mills treasurer and secretary of Marietta college In the afternoon he was the central figure in the celebration of the college anniversary

The president's speech was in his tactful analysis of the growth of government in the Northwest territory

At the Congregational church where President Taft was invested with the degree of D C L the executive made a short speech on the advance of higher education in the Northwest

After leaving Marietta the president stopped at Parkersburg long enough to greet an enthusiastic group of West Virginians

Energy of Cutler

The movement to settle Marietta and Ohio by the Ohio company, Taft said in his speech was at the same time the cause and effect of the adoption of the greatest instrument of fundamental law except the constitution of the United States which has ever been enacted by man It is quite clear that but for the energy of Dr Manasseh Cutler and his associates the ordinance would not have been enacted and even if enacted might not have contained some of the provisions which give it its chief elements of greatness

The members of the continental congress in which the ordinance was passed were some of them members of the constitutional convention and all of them most interested in the discussion which followed the system of that instrument to the people of the states And hence while we may say that the ordinance preceded the constitution in its adoption by two years we may also truly say that the two instruments were twin born and that the ordinance of 1787 had the advantage in that it was the work of practical statesmen who were dealing with an entirely new country about to be settled with no institutions of evil tendency and no vested interests in civic abuses and who thus wrote upon a tabula rasa and were able to put their practical ideals into the form of law

Grateful Memories

The makers of the constitution had to deal with thirteen states and different interests with existing abuses and with the institution of slavery firmly imbedded in the social system of half of them

To a man who is Ohio born who has enjoyed the benefits of the system of public education of that state and the guarantees of liberty and property secured by its fundamental law and the benefit of the association with its people and the cultivation of their ideals of civil and religious liberty and civic righteousness there can be no spot more sacred in memory which crowds his mind with more grateful memories and profounder pride of birth than the town of Marietta

Considerable excitement attended a solitary celebration of the president's arrival as pulled out by Albert S Wood a civil war veteran

The president was just disembarking from his private train when Wood drew a revolver from his pocket and started in on a five shot presidential salute He was suppressed after the second shot but the noise created great excitement among the crowd

KNOX SOUNDS THE KEYNOTE

Talks at Philadelphia of American Diplomacy

PREDOMINANT NOTE IS PEACE PROMOTION

The Results of the Present Adminstration

Is an Evidence of the Progress of the United States in Cause of Arbitration He Points Out the Cases Now in Process of Adjustment—Tells of the Traditional Foreign Policy

Philadelphia Pa June 4 —Secretary of State Knox sounded the keynote of American diplomacy under the present administration in his speech today at the commencement exercises of the University in Pennsylvania

It was the most important utterance concerning the American treatment of foreign affairs since he became secretary

Secretary Knox set forth what had been accomplished under previous administrations and pointed out how under President Taft the traditional foreign policy of the United States so established had been carried to greater length The predominant note of American diplomacy according to Secretary Knox is the promotion of peace by arbitration both by the adoption of his method in the settlement of existing disputes and by taking the initiative movement for enlarging the power of the international court at The Hague In this latter connection Secretary Knox made the startling statement that the foreign powers had gone so far in inducing informally his approval of his plans for establishing an international court of arbitral justice that the success of the enterprise was practically assured

As an evidence of the progress of the United States in the cause of arbitration he pointed out the cases now in process of adjustment the Newfoundland fisheries arbitration at The Hague the Orinoco Steamship company claim against Venezuela which is to be adjusted by the same method the submission of the Alsop claim against Chile to King Edward and the pleas for arbitration as a method of settling disputes which may arise over the Chamizal strip along the Canadian boundary He also pointed out as an evidence of the desire of the United States to promote the multiplication of treaties the American Dominican convention of customs in Santa Domingo he likes to assist the republic of Colombia and upon all now under consideration of straightening out the financial tangle in Honduras by means of a loan

The vogue of hobble skirt dresses in Paris is being met with dainty ribbon garters with which the well dressed Parisienne will twist a ribbon around the ankle and tie a bow knot on the outside of the leg

HOLD CHARLTON THE MURDERER

Authorities Convinced He Sails from New York

SEND DESCRIPTION TO VESSEL CAPTAINS

Police in Opposition to Consul Caughy, at Milan

Italian Authorities Abandon the Theory That Charlton Is Murdered Along with His Wife—Consul Caughy Discovers Some New Evidence Concerning a Second Trunk Conflicting Reports

Como Italy June 4—The authorities are today convinced that Porter Charlton the husband of murdered Mary Scott Castle Charlton sailed for New York on either the Italian Steam Navigation company steamer Verona which left Genoa for New York on June 8 or the Italian Lloyd Steamer Virginia which sailed from Genoa on June 4 They have sent wireless messages to both these vessels requesting that captains not to permit any passenger corresponding to the description of Charlton to escape without thorough investigation

Mrs Charlton was murdered it is now believed on Jan 6 Her body was not discovered until June 10 so that Charlton could easily have sailed on either of the vessels mentioned without arousing the least suspicion

The Italian police have completely abandoned the theory that Charlton may have been murdered along with his wife thereby placing themselves in direct opposition to United States Ambassador Leishman and United States Consul Caughy at Milan who still insist that Charlton too was slain Consul Caughy discovered today what he believes to be new evidence in support of his theory in the fact that a second trunk was missing from the Charlton villa immediately after the murder Caughy says it is improbable that Charlton would have taken the trunk with him in his escape Caughy believes that Mrs Charltons body was placed in one of the trunks found in the Charlton villa and the husbands body in the second trunk and that both were thrown into the lake

Caughy attributes all the stories of Charlton having been seen after the supposed date of the murder to the imaginative minds of the Italian people

Vague Rumors

These stories are nothing more than vague rumors he said today and are so unreliable that even the Italian police have paid little attention to them

The hope of finding a solution of the mystery in Constantine Ispoteli the Russian suspect has practically been abandoned and it is probable that he will be released within a few days His release is demanded by the Russian consul

The positive statements of the postmistress at Molteno Signora Elizi Cipriani that Charlton came into her office on Monday afternoon and asked regarding the sailing time of vessels of a gulf mail carrier that she saw Charlton leaving his villa on Monday evening and of a carpenter named Pietro Longoni that Monday night while he was hiking near the lake Charlton appeared on the bank and asked how deep the water was have convinced the authorities that Charlton is the murderer of his wife and they see no reason for holding Ispoteli

It was expected that the official report of the autopsy on Mrs Charltons body would be made today but the authorities are suppressing all the details making it impossible to verify the report that this examination would reveal a motive for the murder

Absolutely no evidence is given the story published in Il Secolo of Milan that Estelle Reid the New York girl whose body was washed ashore at Naples several weeks ago was in reality the sister of Porter Charlton The identity of Miss Reid was established beyond question and Il Secolo's story only shows the general state of confusion that exists regarding the Charlton mystery

Advance New Theory

Washington June 4 Friends of the Charlton family here today advanced a new theory to explain the strange quantity of blood found in the villa near Como Italy where Mrs Porter Charlton was murdered They say that Porter Charlton may be suspected of his wife's murder suffered from fatal burns

The presence of so much blood in the villa was the foundation in support of the theory of a double murder

Judge Chetlain of Porter Charlton today said he never had a suit there disposing of the Milan newspaper discovery that Miss Estelle Reid who was either murdered or committed suicide near Naples several weeks ago was in reality the sister of Charlton

"Mother" Jones Describes Her Experience

Dalzell Notifies Wilson That Hearing Must Conclude Soon—This Action Will Probably Result in the Bid Being Slammed Down on the Investigation—Turner Produces Letters for the Committee

Washington June 1 —Charges that agents of President Diaz have made a practice of tampering with the United States mails to the extent of opening letters addressed to supposed sympathizers with the Mexican liberal movement were made before the house rules committee yesterday and six rifled envelopes were submitted in evidence

Chairman Dalzell Republican of Pennsylvania notified Representative Wilson Democrat of Pennsylvania that the hearing would have to be concluded at once This action will probably result in the bid being slammed down on the investigation and will preclude calling to the witness stand Oscar Lawler, assistant attorney general who as United States attorney in southern California prosecuted a number of Mexican refugees

John Murray of Los Angeles worker for the Liberal party of Mexico told the committee that when he was in San Antonio Texas, gathering information upon the alleged Mexican persecutions he suspected persons of tampering with his mail Test letters were mailed from different towns to Murray at San Antonio

Letters Are Reversed

Letters were placed in envelopes in prearranged positions and in a large majority of instances when the envelopes reached their destination the contents were reversed in position Also as shown on the sample envelopes presented to the committee after the envelopes were opened they were resealed with a crude dab of paste, the ridge made by this being plainly visible

John K Turner the magazine writer also produced letters and other evidence to show that in the post office at Los Angeles detectives had frequently been seen going over the mails He produced several letters reiterating the charge of tampering with government mails

When Turner finished a spectacled white haired aged woman was introduced as Mother Jones

Mother asked Chairman Dalzell where do you live?

Where the fight is! exclaimed the old woman with a proud shake of her white curls Wherever I can help you will find me

The time was limited, they told her so she started in to tell her story of the persecution of Mexican Liberals Describing her experiences she said

GOVERNOR WILL TRY TO STOP THE FIGHT

Directs Attorney General To Use Every Means.

HE EXPRESSES STRONG ANTI-FIGHT OPINIONS

Gillette's Announcement Falls Like a Bomb Among the Sporting Fraternity of San Francisco and Camps of Jeffries and Johnson—Flood of Letters and Wires Received.

San Francisco, June 16. — Acting under orders from Governor Gillette, the attorney general of the state will use the full force of his office to stop the proposed Jeffries-Johnson prize-fight, which was to have taken place here on the Fourth of July. The instructions from the governor were contained in a letter to M. S. Webb, the attorney general. It was followed by a statement from Gillette in which he emphatically asserted that the fight could not take place in California. This was followed by an interview with Mr Webb, in which he stated that the governor's instructions would be followed to the letter.

Coming as it did unexpectedly, the move to stop the big fight caused a tremendous sensation, and for a time there was confusion among the sporting contingent. At first they regarded the whole thing as a bluff, but after the governor had talked over the long-distance phone from Sacramento, they came to the conclusion that the state executive was in earnest.

Governor Gillette later sent a telegram to the attorney general authorizing him to stop the Langford-Kaufman fight scheduled for next Saturday afternoon in San Francisco. This dispatch intensified the gloom that hung over headquarters of the prize fight promoters, as it was recognized as the death knell of pugilism in this state. No promoter can afford to antagonize the governor, as the attorney general's deputies could stop any boxing match as soon as blood was shed and the spectacle became brutal. All talk about taking legal measures against the governor's action is recognized here as absurd, for every professional contest in the ring held here in years has been a genuine prizefight and under the law a felony.

Tex Rickard was about the first to grasp the true meaning of it all, and he announced that he had stopped work on the big arena and that he, as chief promoter of the fight, had no intention of bucking the governor. He intimated that the fight would probably be transferred to Nevada or Salt Lake City. Nevada is most likely to be selected, as prizefighting is not contrary to law there.

Governor Gives Reasons.

In his letter Gillette says that the district attorney of San Francisco has notified him he can not take action in the matter, and Gillette has notified the attorney general to supersede the San Francisco district attorney and take active personal part in the prevention of the fight. The governor assured the attorney general of the co-operation of the governor's office. The action of Governor Gillette was a sad blow to the sporting men of Frisco, but what they didn't know was that the governor was forced from Washington. The governor in his proclamation declares that he has become convinced that the function slated for the Fourth of July will be a prizefight and not a boxing contest, and for that reason, as prizefighting is declared by the law in California to be a felony, he feels it his duty to stop the contest. He quotes from the San Francisco newspapers of brutal scenes in the Nelson-Wolgast and Attell-Connolly fights to maintain his position.

This is the governor's official position. But the real reason that prompted him to take this action was a telegraphic warning he received from Congressman Bennet of the house foreign affairs committee. Bennet wired that unless the governor stopped the fight San Francisco need not hope to secure the Panama fair. Virtually the same dispatch from Bennet was received by William R. Wheeler, president of the chamber of commerce of San Francisco. This ultimatum made the governor take quick action, especially as it was seconded by dispatches from the California congressmen and senators. Hotel and business men are up in arms over the governor's action and have called a meeting of protest for this afternoon.

There is a possibility that Mrs. Jeffries will step in and take a hand in the fight problem. It has been known all along that she has not been enthusiastic over Jeff entering the ring, and she would welcome the calling off of the whole affair. Harry Monahan, Jeffries' former sparring partner and a friend of the family, said that Mrs Jeffries may try and influence Jim to toss over the chance to meet Johnson.

WEDDING BELLS EVOKE ECHOES

Best Man and Maid of Honor Follow Example of Principals.

TWO TOLEDO SWAINS MARRY MARION GIRLS

William T. Hart and Miss Brewer Share Honors at Nuptial Event Unexpectedly with George Wentz and Miss Hildreth—All Romances of the Moving-Picture World.

Wednesday, William T. Hart, of Toledo, came to Marion to claim Miss Mildred S. Brewer, of Sharp street, for his wedded bride. He was accompanied by his chum, George J. Wenz, of Toledo, whom he had asked to act as best man at the wedding.

Wenz accompanied Hart to the probate court, where the latter obtained a license to marry Miss Brewer. Immediately afterward, Wenz went to the home of Miss Hilda Vernon Hildreth, of north Main street. Miss Hildreth had been asked by the bride to attend the wedding with Mr Wenz, whom Miss Hildreth had known for a long time.

"We'll just surprise them," proposed Wenz to Miss Hildreth. "When they get married why we'll turn around and say to the preacher, 'Now you can marry us,' and I'll flash the license."

Wenz then visited the probate court with Mrs. Ella Sontag, mother of Miss Hildreth, who is only seventeen years old. He procured a license and placed it in an inside pocket. Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Luther C. Brewer, No. 262 Sharp street, the little wedding party assembled. Rev. C. E. Miller, pastor of the Central Christian church, performed the ceremony which made Miss Brewer and Mr. Hart husband and wife. When congratulations had been extended, the groom's best man stepped forward with Miss Hildreth. "Now you may marry us," he said to the minister, and he produced his license. It was a big surprise, but the marriage rites were quickly performed, and the little god Cupid was delighted.

Mr. and Mrs. Hart and Mr. and Mrs. Wenz will make their future home in Toledo. Mr. Hart is engaged in the moving-picture show business and Mr. Wenz is employed in the Overland automobile factory in Toledo. Both Toledo men first met their happy brides while they were singing in moving-picture shows.

ESCAPES FROM JAIL DOES MARION MAN

Arrested by Columbus Officers at the Request of Marion Authorities.

Harry Ferrin, who is wanted here on five different charges, including non-support and forgery, was arrested in Columbus, Wednesday, but escaped jail Thursday morning, according to information received by Justice Charles H. Conley.

Several weeks ago, Ferrin disappeared. His wife filed in Justice Conley's court an affidavit charging him with failing to provide for a little daughter. A few days later an affidavit charging Ferrin with forgery and obtaining money on a bogus check was filed.

At 12:30 o'clock Thursday morning, Justice Conley received information from Columbus to the effect that Ferrin had been arrested there. The Columbus authorities asked Justice Conley if Ferrin could give bond for his appearance. The justice, however, decined to allow Ferrin to give bond and asked that he be held until an officer from his court could arrive in Columbus. Several hours later Justice Conley received a telephone message saying that Ferrin had escaped prison some time between 12:30 and 1 o'clock Thursday morning.

RAILROAD.

While transferring some cars in local yards, Thursday morning shortly after 5 o'clock, John Hopkins, an Erie yard conductor, lost his balance and fell backward, striking his head on the drawbar of a trolley car, which was loaded on one of the flat cars in front of him. A deep gash over two inches in length was inflicted and the injured man will be confined to his rooms for some time as a result of the accident which occurred when a cut of cars was pushed against the one on which he was standing. He was taken to the Dr. C. E. Sawyer sanatorium in the Hess & Markert ambulance, and is reported to be recovering nicely.

In the future, the men on the Hocking Valley railroad who are assigned to watch engines in case of accident or for any other reason will be paid at the regular rate of pay given them in their regular capacity at the time of the accident. This will not apply to engineers and firemen who are assigned to go from one point to another for the specific purpose of watching the engines. In the latter cases the men will be paid at the regular hostler's rates of pay.

A slight accident on the Hocking Valley road near Powell caused considerable delay in traffic on that road Thursday. The parlor car on No. 31 left the track near Powell and it was necessary to transfer the passengers and leave the car to be replaced later. The train arrived here about one hour late.

Big Four train No. 5 had an accident in this city, Wednesday evening which caused considerable delay. The flue on the engine bursted and it was necessary to substitute a freight engine to take the train out. A delay of one hour was caused.

OKLAHOMA IS HAVING STRENUOUS TIME LOCATING HER CAPITAL

Oklahoma City, June 15.—Before Oklahoma settles the question of where her new capital shall be located a strenuous political fight is promised. What is causing more worry is the fact that the difference of opinion may not be only a political one, as violence has been threatened. The fact that Joan Haskell, daughter of the governor, was hooted and stoned gives a slight idea of the feeling in certain quarters. Guthrie and Shawnee are not going to lose the chance of being the capital without going to the courts. Governor Haskell, who is said to have taken the seal of state and made a wild automobile ride to this city, has declared that the question has been settled once and for all by the voters.

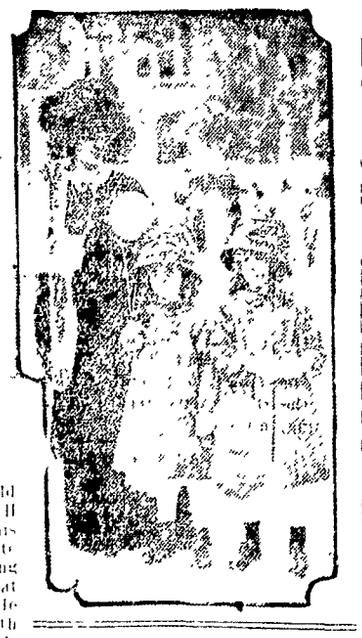
FRANK J. GOULD IS SOON TO BECOME A CITIZEN OF FRANCE



Paris, June 14.—Frank J. Gould has decided that hereafter he will live his life in Paris, deserting his native country so that he can devote his time to horse racing and writing plays. It has been reported here that Gould will become a Frenchman. He is also expected to marry Miss Edith Kelly, a New York actress. Friends of Gould are surprised over his plan to become a citizen of France, as he has said many times that he wanted to share in raising his children. Though divorced, Gould made almost daily visits to his children while in New York City.

James R. Garfield and Gifford Pinchot.

New York, June 16.—Two of the happiest men in the United States are Gifford Pinchot and James R. Garfield. The return of Colonel Roosevelt means much to these two men, for they were original members of his tennis cabinet, and they expect the colonel to join them in an effort to vindicate them fight on Secretary Ballinger. When this snapshot was taken of the two men they had been holding a whispered conversation for some time. Both men certainly seem pleased. A portion of their conversation referred to: "Well, June 18 is a big day."
